“ To the family of Granny

Loss teaches us about love and the worth of someone. Granny's spirit was great and full of laughter and joy. There was never a time when I was around her that I didn't laugh or smile. The last time I saw her was right before Christmas. I picked her, Fran, Julia and Joel up from the airport. It was kind of late, but Granny wanted some BBQ. We had some phone issues and couldn't look up a BBQ spot so I just drove around looking for bbq. We found a guy on the side of a shop with his grilled hooked up and ready to go. We pleaded with him to share the last rack of ribs with us so that Granny could have some. He did and we grinned all the way home. Granny was happy and that made me happy. Sleep well Queen, you were a good a faithful servant. Family, may your memories comfort you during this challenging season. God bless!
