

Adetoun Ariyike Abodunrin

April 13, 2005 - February 28, 2025

Adetoun was born on April 13th, 2005, at the prestigious Northside Hospital, Atlanta Georgia. She spent majority of her childhood, and teen years at Peachtree Corners Georgia. She later moved to Loganville, GA during her late teen/early adult years.

Adetoun was highly adventurous. She unapologetically flapped her wings, and off she goes wherever the wind took her. She was spontaneous in nature, and she embraced new experiences without overthinking them. A self-taught cosmetic connoisseur, Adetoun's hands, body and soul, beautified humans from all walks of life, through hair, makeup, nails, and fashion. She was also a skilled painter. She captured Mother Nature through landscape painting, and displayed personalities, moods and likeness of humans, through portraits.

Adetoun had a heart of diamonds. She had a strong, resilient, and pure heart. Her empathy and unconditional love for anyone, and everyone, is what made her incomparable. She had a saying - "there can never be another Adetoun." She blended her African roots, and American culture, without any friction. Adetoun was the sunshine that poured through, after a heavy storm.

From birth, Adetoun struggled with a chronic lung disease, called asthma. But she was insurmountable, and unstoppable. She blazed through every challenges, as she sojourned this earth. Wind, hail, snow, rain, she overcame.

She was the epitome of strength in human form.

Adetoun is survived by mother, Princess Oyeyinka Oluwa-Mensah, father, Abayomi Abodunrin, stepfather, Donald E. Mensah Snr., sister, Adepeju Abodunrin, brothers, Adegoriola, Adeoye, and Babatunde Abodunrin, nieces, Ariyana and Azaiah Abodunrin, nephew, Kari Abodunrin, aunt, Mrs. Jokotade Ipaye

Adetoun gained her wings, and is elegantly seated among holy angels, in the kingdom of heaven. She came, she saw, and she conquered.
