Nephews Jamarri Henry McCullough, Marcaisse Gilles, and Jaylen McCullough, Horus Gilles, Phoenix McCullough. Nieces La’ Miyah Sanders, Shaniece Sanders, Makayla Gilles and Jayla Sanders. Tony also leaves a host of aunts, uncles, cousins and close friends.

While growing up in Gwinnett County Georgia, Tony attended several schools from elementary, middle, and high school eventually obtaining his GED through Gwinnett Technical College.

Tony was very helpful and kind he would give you the shirt off his back (literally), he would take it off and give it to you randomly.

Of the many things Tony enjoyed, listening to music was at the top of the list. Tony was a very talented musician, he discovered his rapping skills during his teenage years. His rap name was “savage boy” and he was known for just that. He savagely rapped like no other and could at times freestyle better than most Mc's to date.

Tony enjoyed eating, however, was not a good cook and at times he would burn water. Tony typically laughed at and made jokes of everything and his sense of humor was lovable. He kept to himself and when it came to sticking up for his family he was very vocal about it.

An avid reader, Tony enjoyed books, he even has the entire collection of Harry Potter books. Tony loved playing video games throughout his lifetime, every year mom would have to get the new Madden for Playstation, and anytime the newest Playstation console was released Tony would get it.

Tony loved watching football and he would not miss a Dallas Cowboys game. Tony owned Dallas Cowboys everything shirt, pillow, bedding and hats that he would wear all four seasons.

Tony will be missed and forever in our hearts.
