“ I just found out about your passing this morning. Even with all of this technology, I am a couple years behind. My heart is broken. You were a great NCO, I learned so much from you and am so glad that I had the chance to deploy with you. I am very grateful that you were the one to pin me when I earned my stripes. The world is a bit darker without you.

“ Acooty Coo... today I found out about your passing. I can't believe you're gone. I passed the word on to the rest of the kiddos (platoon). You were a great NCO and a an even greater friend. You had a great impact on every one who was blessed to know you. I'll toast up a crown to a king! Miss you battle

“ The last time I saw you was that Thursday before the Fourth of July weekend. My last words to you were "Be careful with that crotch rocket". You said with a chuckle "Okay Ken, have a good one". Just another one of those end of the workday quips we all say to our coworkers. Little did I know it would be our last words.

Please allow me to extend my heartfelt sadness to family and friends on the passing of this young soldier. May we all find strength in our memories and the good this man brought into our lives. Rest in peace Sarge!

*Very Respectfully,

“ I never thought when I left it would be the last time I saw you and had I known, I would have hugged you longer. My time at the clinic was happier and more enjoyable because of you. You always kept me on my toes with that I-know-something-that-you-don't smile and the barrage of pranks you always had up your sleeve. I always knew I could count on you - we were a great team and I learned so much from you. Thank you for making such a profound impact on me - I will never forget you and will keep you in my heart always. Rest easy, SSG Accoo-coo-ca-choo.

Love,
Alisa
