“ Dre was a Kool dude who really didn't care about what others thought of him. He wanted everyone to know that he was his own person. From the start we argued like brother and sister. Cause we were always was kool after our arguments 😞 He use to crack me up with the bubble coat and fur hood 😊 But he could always handle REAL NIGGA TO DA TABLE. True bike life or no life kind of guy, Catch up with G bro.....forever my bro ❤️❤️

“ Dre was a cool Breeze on a hot day. The mist after a storm. He lit up every room he entered. He danced to his own beat and lived a great life. His smile was contagious. May he Rest In Peace.

I see how important it is to stay in touch with everyone in your circle, I seen you about 4 weeks ago at the flea, you pulled up in the Tahoe, your music was layed out, and you was proud of it! We was too fam! it's messing with me that I haven't talked to you since...rest in heaven Nephew.

“ To the Hollins Family it pains me to have to write this. Brandon was a amazing person as you already know. We first met when he was 19 and had got into a little trouble. Even though he wasn't where he wanted to be at that time he never complained he always had a funny story to tell or Encouraging words to inspire you to do better even though his situation wasn't so good. When Brandon did touchdown he made it his priority to be where he wanted in life. He wanted his family to be proud of him especially his Grandma. Brandon was a great father figure to all of my kids even though they were not his. For more than 10 years I've seen this young boy turn into a Exceptional young man. Brandon will truly be missed but he will always hold a place in all of our hearts.
