“ Brandon I come and visit your final resting spot every day and several times a day. I wish time could be reversed. I was happy that you came back home. I didn't want to be alone. I think of you all the time, I miss you coming into my room and asking me if I needed anything or if I wanted you to go and get me something to eat. I still can hear your hearty laugh and your bright smile. You had just moved back home, oh how I wish I would have spent time with you that weekend. I was there for YOU, no matter what.... I was there but you needed God more. I identified with you.....I know, I understand. I am hurting so much.....losing a child is different from any other loss in life. I wish I wouldn't have loss you. You were loved and important.....no time was taken to really show you how much.....I miss you so so MUCH.....every time I see a Mustang, I want it to be you.....the pain is unbearable inside of my heart. The loss of you is in my heart and my eyes.....

love you always and forever my loving son....ALWAYS.....
