“ Hey Cheryl,
My heart longs to have one of our many conversations right about now. Last week when we spoke on the phone I had know idea it would be the last time we would have one of our conversations. I am still fighting with getting my mine around this because you are one of my closest friends and not even dearth can take that away.
Thank you for being my dear friend. You made me realize that you should always tell people you love them that said I need you to know that I truly love you. Until we meet again rest easy my friend.

“ Growing up, I always saw Cheryl more like an Auntie. She was a kind, loving woman, and she had a radiant smile. She loved to love, laugh, spend time with family, had a soft spot for children, and she had an undying love for Jesus. No matter what, if you needed someone, she was one person you could turn to for comfort and a good laugh. We were so blessed to have her in our lives, and I personally thank God for granting us the privilege of being her kin. Love you, Tootsie. You'll be dearly missed.
