“ Ms. White/Mrs. Hightower was the Montgomery's third mother. She corrected us and loved the idea that her three children and our family had always had each other back. She made me laugh one time when she told Wilbert that if you did not go back and fight for yourself, you will then have to visit that belt she had. Wilbert for some strange reason that day tore into me like a tornado. She always gave us good advise, mentored her children James, Joseph and Wilbert with love and passion. She may be gone from the body. But her spirit will always be with you. This is why she doesn't want anyone to cry. She wants you to continue to do what is right and live, learn and laugh together. RIP Mrs. Hightower with love from the entire Montgomery's family. East Atlanta forever.
