“ I write this note in remembrance of my dear friend, Christopher Mordi. We had been good friends since our days in Benin City, Nigeria in the 1970s before I left for Canada and even though we did not have the opportunity to meet over the years, we remained in touch and enjoyed good conversations. You were optimistic, full of warmth and laughter. You faced your challenges with open mind, remarkable courage, tenacity, resilience and willingness to forge ahead. You remained strong in your faith and was always thankful to God. You fought a brave fight and the pain is over. My hope is that you will rest in peace knowing that you did all you can in this world. You will be solely missed.

“ On behalf of the Iyegbu family, I take this moment to remember my true friend, Christopher Mordi, for the friendship we shared, and the exceptional experiences that bounded us since our parts crossed at P.B.G.S, Issele-Uku. You remained a trusted, dependable, and faithful friend to the end, and that made all the difference. We will remember you for your simplicity, your playful and gentle smiles; and the ease with which you got along with our children whom you always called on the phone to teach the Issele-Uku language each time you called. They knew you simply as "uncle Chris" and sometimes referred to you as their Issele-Uku language tutor. They too will miss you very dearly. Once in a life time we come across people who mean something to us as a brother or as a true friend, I am singularly lucky to have met a friend like Chris who always put people before self, and who always put a smile on people's faces. I am eternally grateful for your friendship and though we will miss you, I am grateful that you walked this earth at a time that we walked here too. But most of all, I am grateful your pain is over, and here comes the moon. Rest in peace brother, rest in peace.

“ Uncle Chris will always be remembered for his love and care. Despite his health challenges, he rebuilt and sustained a new way of life and a career with his disability. His every word to our family was a kind one. Through the ups and downs, he remained a member of our Issele - Uku community and supported in every way he could .

We know that Uncle Chris is in a better place, free of the troubles and suffering of this world and resting in the bosom of our creator.

We pray that God comforts and strengthens his immediate family, loved ones and all those he left behind. May his soul continue to Rest In Peace.

“ So painful that he departed the shores of this planet earth so soon. But when I remember that God is inscrutable, i rest my case upon His will. Therefore I say rest in perfect peace my dear friend until we meet and part no more. Adieu.
