Ebikewonimo Okorowanta was born on December 3, 1994, in the city of Port Harcourt, Rivers State, Nigeria. He began his early education at Tantua International Group of Schools in Port Harcourt before moving to the United States of America, where he continued his studies at Redan Middle School and later graduated from Redan High School in 2013.

Driven by a strong sense of duty and adventure, Ebikewonimo chose to serve his adopted country by joining the United States Navy, where he proudly served for six years. After completing his service and voluntarily retiring, he pursued higher education and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Airspace and Aviation Management.

At the time of his passing, Ebikewonimo was working with Newcastle Aviation Company, where he was known for his dedication, professionalism, and bright spirit. Always striving for greater heights, he was also preparing to take the qualifying test to rejoin the Navy as a pilot, a dream he was deeply passionate about.

Ebikewonimo's journey was marked by courage, determination, and an unshakable drive to excel. His life, though cut short, continues to inspire his family, friends, and all who had the privilege of knowing him.

“Ebi, I still can't believe you're gone. It breaks my heart to say those words. You were such an incredible person, full of life, laughter, and light. Every memory I have of you is a beautiful one.

You had this amazing ability to bring joy to everyone around you, even in the toughest times. No matter how I felt before calling you, I always ended the conversation smiling. Your optimism was contagious, and your positive spirit lifted us all.

Every conversation with you was rich in plans, dreams, goals, and growth. You always pushed me to do better and believe in myself. I remember when I enlisted in the Navy, you made it your mission to ensure I got the best rate. In your words, “No take ABE, dey look dirty!” That was so you! always looking out for others, always wanting the best for the people you loved.

Though your time with us was far too short, the impact you made will last a lifetime. You inspired so many people, including me, in ways that words can hardly express. You lived with honesty, discipline, and integrity. A true example of how to live and love fully.

You were my confidant, my encourager, and my safe place. You always listened without judgment and spoke with kindness. Thank you for being an inspiration and for changing my life.

I pray for your eternal peace, knowing you are in a better place. You will forever remain in my heart, Ebi. Your light continues to shine through the lives you touched.

“ O, it was an honor serving alongside you! I'll forever cherish the moments that we spent together. I remember being up late on the ship eating fruit, putting honey on our faces (your beauty hack), and me trying to learn your native language lol. This is only one of the many memories that I hold with you.

Gone too soon

You will forever be in my heart ❤️

Love,

Avi (Jones)

“ Ebi, you will truly be missed. Your life and your memory will live on forever. I will always cherish the moments we laughed, danced, and talked all day and night while I cooked your favorite Jamaican food.

Thank you for letting me be a part of your world even in the small everyday moments that became big memories.

Rest in peace, Ebi. My deepest condolences to your family.

“ A Tribute to My Beloved first Son,

Ebikewonimo

You came into this world and changed my life forever. From the moment I first held you, I knew a love deeper than I ever thought possible. You grew from a curious, joyful child into a remarkable man, kind, determined, and full of heart.

At just 30 years old, your time with me feels far too short, but the impact you left will never fade. You touched everyone around you with your laughter that could fill a room, your compassion that reached those who needed it most, and your strength that carried others even when you faced your own storms.

You were my son, but also my teacher, showing me what courage looks like, what unconditional love means, and how to find beauty in the smallest moments, you show an exemplary lifestyle for your siblings. I will forever long to see your smile and hear your voice, I carry you with me in every heartbeat, every sunrise, every memory that still shines bright.

Your story doesn't end here, my son. It lives on in the people you loved, in the dreams you inspired, and in the countless lives you quietly made better. You will always be my pride, my joy, and my reason to keep believing in love that never dies.

Rest peacefully, my beautiful boy. Until we meet again, know that your light will never go out. It lives on in me.

*With all my love,
Mr Okorowanta*

“ To my friend,
From the day we met, I knew you were one of a kind. You carried yourself with this easy confidence.
Over the years, every time we talked, it picked up right where we left off. From short check-ins to those long conversations about dreams, accomplishments, crazy stories, and the little things, it all meant something.
I can still see you on FT wrapped up in your blanky.
My favorite moments were when you told me about Nigeria and every time, I'd say, “O, one day let's go & show me your home there.” You'd always say you would, and I still believe you meant it. Ill take that trip in your memory now.
You showed me that little restaurant in Miami & taught me what to order & how to eat it with fufu, a true win for the big back in me 😂
You were always the boujiiest guy I knew, in the best way, and somehow made everyone around you want to live a little better and dream a little bigger.
And let's not forget that one time you let me drive and we ended up racing HAHA OOPS.
You always told me I was funny, and I'd tell you, “I know,” just to make you laugh harder. I hope I'll never forget that sound.
I'm so proud of everything you accomplished, but even more proud to have called you my friend.
Thank you for every laugh, every story, the life lessons, & every bit of light you shared. [SEP]
Until we meet again.
Love,
Jay

“ Ebi, my first son. Words are not enough to express my pain knowing I will never see you, pick up my call or post on the family forum. I have too many memories to recount but what good will those memories do? As a first child, you toiled, sacrificed, endured setbacks, overcame family challenges , worked so hard to make mummy and daddy proud, making sure your siblings are secured and safe. You set the pace and others follow. You were vibrant, light in the house. Mummy is broken!!!!

YOU WERE A CHILD WITH A DIFFERENCE. YOUR FATHER, SIBLINGS AND ALL YOU HAVE TOUCHED THEIR LIVES WILL MISS YOU.

I know you are free from the struggles of life. Rest peacefully in the lord.

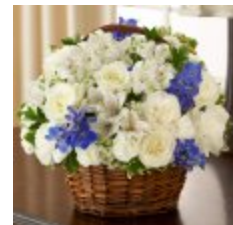

You left us too early but God loves you more....Ebikewonimo

MUMMY LOVES YOU!!!

“ Ebi was lil bro. When we worked together on the ship, he always looked out for me, making sure I ate, while I had his back in the medical department. Even after we went our separate ways, we stayed in touch through calls and texts and instagram. He had this bright energy and charisma that made everyone around him feel good. He left a real mark on everyone he met. It hurts knowing there won't be another “yoooooooo” from him. My sincerest condolences to his family and loved ones. He'll truly be missed.
