“ My condolences to Erica's family, friends and loved ones. I met Erica at my workplace when she was still an undergraduate college student, a very bright young lady working as an intern and quite pleasant to be around. She was well-informed about financial issues - investing, retirement accounts and such, and she also played soccer. She's definitely missed here at the workplace.

“ Sometimes a picture can tell a hundred words and tell many stories. As I look at her picture, she tells a story of Life hope and Love and it verily spills out that “life” could not hold me down and that I held it down but to only make people around me stronger when they were around me. The quest and the journey were her journey and her journey and no one else would know the feeling that she had but the they shared the strength and the love and determination that she always displayed as a person, friend wife daughter and co-worker. So, the story Of Erica Love one another so that we all can share and be love because I know that I was.

“ Erica, my dear sweet friend. I miss talking to you and think about you everyday. We had plans to see a Falcons Vs. Saints rival game, but my trip to Atlanta was cancelled and we didn't get the chance. You have helped me in so many ways with your always positive vibes and love for helping others. You were more than a co-worker to me but a friend I could always count on to listen to me vent and make everything better. Sending love to your family and friends.
