“ Dear Mr. Ernest Neil Jr.,

Your son Jhetaun has shared with me the full canvas of your life's story—its trials and triumphs, its moments of struggle, and its testament to the strength of the human spirit. I've learned of the challenges you faced, the battles you fought, and the courage with which you turned a new page. Your journey of redemption and resilience has deeply touched me.

In the chapters of your life where you rebuilt and transformed, you sowed seeds of hope and perseverance that have blossomed into a powerful legacy. It's in Jhetaun's laughter, his kindness, his talent, his resolve to face life with optimism—traits that mirror your own.

You've shown us that it's never too late to rewrite our story, to rise above our past, and to lay a foundation of love and change for those we hold dear. Your life is a beacon of possibility, a narrative of getting things right, no matter the odds.

Mr. Neil, your journey, with all its ups and downs, continues to inspire us. Jhetaun's strides in music are a tribute to the unwavering love and life lessons you instilled. He is the living melody of your enduring legacy, and I am forever grateful for the part of you that lives on in him.

As I reflect on your life and the beauty that has sprung from your most difficult times, I feel an immense gratitude for the paths you've paved, for the life lessons that extend far beyond your time with us. Your spirit, your will to change, and your love continue to resonate and guide us all.

With heartfelt respect and admiration,

Kelly <3
