“ Sebio I grew up talking to you for hours everyday , I felt comfortable being vulnerable with you and I'm so glad I got to have a bond with you , you were such a light, ur smile could make anyones day.... Im so sad ur not here but I also know there is a place better and I'll see you again. This feels so unreal to me ... I remember every little thing about you and I still feel you here. So I just know ur watching over everyone. Love you , forever in my heart

“ All of these condolences for someone who was a complete terror and a horrible human!! How is that no one wants to talk about how this person terrorized people? Him and his friend Landis Lee are complete trash. They have physically, verbally, and sexually assaulted people. Even up until he took his own pathetic life, he terrorized folks including, his mother. Funny how blind and forgetful people become when death occurs.

Why would you say something so thoughtless and hurtful? His mother and father are going through so much and this is what you post on this man's obituary. Shame on you. This is not the time nor the place for you to be so hateful. His life was not pathetic, he was loved by many. He was always loving and respectful towards me so for you to speak this way about him is disgusting. RIP Eusebio

“ While I didn't teach Eusebio, he was definitely my buddy at Lambert. Always talking with me. He had a smile that could light up a room. The last time I saw him was a couple years ago at Target. He walked me to my car and gave me a big hug.
