“ What can you say about your closest friend, who has died?--that she was beautiful and bright? that she was classy, elegant and sophisticated? that she was kind, thoughtful, generous and supportive in every way? Yes, my dear friend, Evelyn Bailey, was all of those things and more. I was so blessed to make her acquaintance at a time when I needed a friend and a running buddy. I had just retired and she guided me into a meaningful journey of exploring and making the most of this thing that we call life.--She lived a full one and made an indelible mark on my heart in a remarkably short and beautiful period of time. She's been my rock and my inspiration--a brave and loyal friend forever. To say that I will miss her is the understatement of the century! I will never forget you, dear lady. Rest in the sacred arms of Jesus... 🙏💔

“ Evelyn, Over 2 years later and I still miss you more than ever. I'm grateful for the time that we shared together and all the fun times. Thank you for all of the wisdom you shared with me. We learned so much from one another as true friends do. Here is a happy memory at the Michael Jackson tribute concert in Calhoun, Ga with your talented relative, James Times. Love to your beautiful family.

“ Evelyn A. Bailey (1956 – 2022) was my inspiration: Around 2014, I (Jody Tucker) met her at a media networking event, where she dared to speak out on a controversial issue – which captured the respect of all attendees. From this introduction, Evelyn and I attended several other industry events – including the 2016 ADDY Awards gala (pictured).

Between events, Evelyn was a friend to me and my wife (Lora Tucker). We enjoyed social times at our condos, overlooking Atlanta’s beautiful skyline. At other times, we met at boardroom tables, where she helped me to edit written articles. (At recent times, I was privileged to simply leave her a bag of groceries.) Indeed, Madam Evelyn A. Bailey was a wise and elegant woman who schooled and motivated younger [communications industry] professionals. I am fortunate to have been one of her students.

Evelyn was a powerful and loved friend and colleague. Evelyn was “family.” I look forward to seeing her again, on a paradise earth.
