“ My condolence to the Ellis family. Francis will be missed dearly. He was a true friend, someone you could count on at any time. As a colleague, he was dependable, reliable and willing to go beyond the call of duty to assist his friends and coworkers in capacities within his reached. As a new member to our team, he checked in on me weekly, making sure I was fully up to speed. He was a scholar and a gentleman who had a deep love for his African roots, culture and history. He espoused African values and stressed the importance of the of the younger generation of African American knowing their history; while at the same time his friendships transcended all ethnic, cultural, religious and racial backgrounds.

Away from work, he had interest in business and entrepreneurship, namely, real estate. He was engaged in philanthropic work both domestically and in Ghana West Africa. He was active in sports, he loved politics, history and took special interest in religious discussions. Overall, this was a very nice dude who touched the lives of anyone he encountered in some shape or form, and he will be missed profoundly. Rest in peace my friend and brother, you left us too early but your legacy will live on!

The bond of friendship grows from sharing good time, working through some bad times and caring about each other. A friend is a shoulder to lean on and a helping hand when more than two is needed, a quiet ear to hear a story that needs to be told. A friend is a true gift an that gift I found in you.

May your Soul Rest In Peace my brother.

My sincere condolences to the family of Francis.

“ My sincere condolences to the wife and children, brother, sister mother and relatives of my dear friend and brother Francis. It really hurts when I first heard of his passing and unto this moment I am still in disbelief that I have lost such treasure, wonderful and pleasant friend. Losing someone especially so friendly and so humbled is devastating, and no words can ever really relieve that pain. I clearly understood how everyone's feels at this moment since I have recently lost my mom about a month ago. Even though we may know that death is a part of life, yet it's never easy to lose someone so close. I pray that these few words can assist with your healing process and may the Most High comfort, sustain and help with bringing peace and recovery to your hearts and minds. May his soul rest in peace.
