Dr. Glenn Palmer was born on November 14, 1957 in Kingston, Jamaica. He passed away on Wednesday June 12, 2019. He was a wonderful son, brother, friend, colleague and mentor. His teaching and life's work impacted countless people who will forever cherish his memory. Dr. Palmer received his A.S. from Excelsior College in Kingston, Jamaica, B.S. and M.S. degrees from the Bernard M. Baruch College of the City College of New York and his Ed. D from the University of Georgia in Adult Education. Dr. Palmer began his career in the Public school system in Jamaica and continued in the United States in the New York City Public School System and in the Cobb County (Georgia) public school system. Glen became disillusioned by the administrative duties required of him in K12 education and took a position in the corporate sector. He transitioned into corporate training. After experiencing the reality of the "Glass Ceiling," Glenn decided to pursue his doctorate and return to his passion – education!

Dr. Palmer was a professor and a scholar who was respected by his friends, students and colleagues.

At the time of his passing, he was a professor of Business and management at DeVry University in Atlanta where he taught for almost two decades. He loved teaching! In addition to teaching full time at DeVry University, he served as adjunct faculty at several other institutions. These institutions included The University of Georgia, Troy State University and Cleveland State University. He was an active member of the American Association for Adult and Continuing Education (AAACE) and the Adult Education Research Conference (AERC) where he often presented. He most recently served on the AERC Steering Committee.
