“ I am just grateful to be reflection you, and to called you mother. I am going to missed everything about you especially when you shift your shoulders and say lord how mercy Chris. Are when you left a voicemail just to say this is mom call me back pumpkin mommy here. And then I rush to call you back and say mommy I am so sorry I didn't hear the phone are we still eating lunch together and your response made me dance like a child in candy store. I looked forward to our lunch date and our conversations at time they was deep but always funny and I'll fall on the floor with your wording a true comedian you was. I am trying mother to adjust not having your flesh being presence, this one right here is unbearable. I can write a book you but I believe anyone ever been blessed to have known, talk to you or heard about you can agree you was and still is one of a kind and will be truly missed and loved by many. Rest now mommy your babies have each other as always... never will be forgotten!
