“ James, it has been a minute since we have seen each other. Last Thursday, you were on my mind & I thought it would be so good to see you again. Only to find out today, that you died on that day. Working with at Fannie Mae was a treat. May your family be comforted by God & his strength support them as they grief your loss. Hope we meet again. Jennifer McCall

“ I'll remember Dwight for his humor and the energy he brought every time we ran into each other. He gave me his ear during a rough time and I'll always appreciate him for that. Condolences to his family and friends.

“ My heart goes out to you and to everyone who loved him. This is such a huge loss. I hadn't seen "Dwight" since high school, but he was full of life at that time. He was committed to serving his community and wanted to see everyone around him happy back then. I could tell from his Facebook posts that he only grew more committed as he expanded his horizons. Such a loving and generous man! May you find comfort in the many memories of your husband, daddy, son, brother, papa, uncle, nephew, friend, fraternity brother, etc. Prayers to you all.
