“ I met Jazz on an online game called Toontown Rewritten. How we met and became friends is quite amusing. Basically a person named Riddles tried to make us both die (go green) in game. I will post screenshots of our convo about it. I knew her for almost 3 years after that. We talked constantly on skype. I was there whenever she had a bad breakout with a friend of 7 yrs and was going thru so much drama. And then she had another bad breakup with a friend last year and I was there right in the middle of it talking to her and being there while it was happening. It wasn't her fault though. She was a good friend to them and they treated her so unfairly. She never deserved any of that. Jazz loved Gravity Falls and we'd both nerd out over it, talking for hours about theories and cliff hangers. She liked drawing too and made ocs and would show me some of her drawings she'd be working on. She was there when I was going thru shit too. She listened to me vent and we'd have So many deep convos about the world and life. I felt like she was the only person I could ever get so deep and personal with. We'd send eachother funny videos and laugh at stupid memes online. I only wish I could have talked to her more before she passed. I was (and still) am going thru my own personal issues right now and couldn't have access to the internet so she gave me her number. She texted me and told me she was going to the hospital. She told me her symptoms and I was scared for her. I figured though since she was at the hospital she'd be okay. But it still sounded serious. I wanted to believe she would be alright. She told me while she was there she'd keep me updated. However, the 18th was the last time I received a text from her. I grew worried and kept texting her but she never would respond. I messaged her on Discord and Skype. Eventually I got in touch with one of her past friends and I found out what happened. I'm still in shock and just can't yet process she's really gone. She was such a great friend to me and I'm really going to miss her. Jazz I love you ❤️ I hope her family finds peace and I send my deepest condolences.
