For reasons we may not fully understand, God creates us just a little lower than angels, only to exalt us above them. Acknowledging you, Sister Jesse Lloyd, in immeasurably exalted love and grace.

Love is the fabric that never fades, no matter how often it's washed in a river of tears. My God comfort and keep you.

“ All of life is a process of grieving. Life is a process of establishing primary attachment to others, and then separating from them. To speak of life in some ways is to speak to grief. Grief is the tension that holds life and loss together. Grieving experiences are the most profound experiences of life. It's through the process of grieving we become a whole person in Christ. Grief is essentially our response to loss in life. It's a normal reaction to significant losses. The process of attachment, loss and grieving are continuing cycles which occur through out life. May God give you peace in the mist of your storms. We will miss our dear sister mother Lloyd.

“ Jessie opened her heart and home to us as if we were family, inviting us to birthdays, barbeques, and family gatherings. She was an extraordinary woman who carried herself with grace and God, may she rest in peace knowing her memory lives on. Our condolences to the whole family as this is a difficult time, but we are all there with you in spirit.
