“ Rest in peace, Johnny. You were truly one of a kind—a guy with a sharp wit, strong morals, and enough energy to light up any room (or pool party). I'll always hold close to the memories we shared, especially that day at my apartment pool party when you became the life of the party without even trying—and, of course, how much you enjoyed my cooking. You had a way of making us laugh when we least expected it. Fly high, man.

“ Johnny.. I can't believe you're gone. I just can't... I barely knew you until these past 4 years and I know you're one of a kind. <3 We started talking when I was coming in for nights and you were leaving off your evening shift until I changed to days... I always loved your cute smile when you came in or just to say hi to me. I loved your hugs when I ask or joke around asking when am I going to get them? Lol. I can't get that Tuesday was the last time I got your hug in the locker room. You'll be missed and you'll always loved. You're in my heart and your family is in my prayers. Fly high in heaven buddy. Love you.

“ Johnny Moe,

I will miss your crazy humor! I know for a fact you have that beautiful 7-million-dollar house up there, with the marble floors, the big driveway, and I know you finally got that big yard up there! Thanks for simply being Johnny, and don't be up there trying to slick talk all the pretty angels either lol.

*Until we meet again rest well!
Forever Young!*
