“ Jon- you were my friend, confidant, therapist, “good trouble” partner, dance instructor, smile maker and angel voice of reason. I’ve loved you since the day you welcomed me to “the hood” on October 1st of 1980! I’ll never forget that day and I’ll never forget you! You’ve been such a remarkable friend to so many- but you’ve been more than that to me and my children! You are an amazing man and will be an amazing angel! Don’t beat my Dad too badly at Risk up there my friend! I love that we found each other and what it meant to my life to have you in it ❤️ I love you forever and I’ll always smile when I play your laugh in my mind! Until we meet again...

“ Dear Jon...

You were my friend, teacher, brother, and a touchstone.

When I first moved to Atlanta, I knew no one. But you took me under your wings, made sure I was happy, forced me to enjoy life, helped me see the world around me was beautiful and warm. You showed me your Atlanta and I grew to love it as my home. You helped me become a more composed cell culture devotee. You were pure compassion. Your infectious joy reflected in your eyes even in silence. Paul mentioned that sparkle in those eyes and we all know it well. Your sports sparring is known across the land. Your conscious efforts to get into good trouble from your youth until that last text message you sent me this April will live on. You helped pave the way. I promise you I will do my best to carry on in your name.

I will miss all that you brought to us. I will miss your stories about the real America, how I wished we had written them down. I will miss your love for food and friends. I will miss your optimism, your courage, your strength and dedication to family. I will miss our trips to the Garden Center. I will miss your love for food and all our culinary journeys. I never missed a meal when you were in my life. When you met Brian, you fought with him for that love. I never saw two people fight so hard to be together. And you won. You both won the biggest prize there is. You both knew, love is everything. And I am so glad he was there for you. Brian, I swear with all my heart, that love lives beyond death.

Jon, you loved life the way we should all love life. Wholly. Warmly. Deeply. I miss you so much my friend, my brother, my teacher. I am trying to design a garden now... for Murray and for you. I pray you are with your many animal children who are now in heaven, you gave them so much respect, they are surely taking care of you now. It is your turn to rest. Forever in peace.

*Lovingly always yours,
Mona*

“ I had the honor to meet and co-work with Jon during my internships in Hunter Lab. He was always good mood, nice smile and great partner for any type of more or less serious discussions, always there when I needed help to find something. I was following his fight for life last few months, I hoped that he will win! Unfortunately, bad news come abroad .... Rest in peace Jon! I will never forget you! Thank you for being my great friend! Dear Jon's family and friends, please accept my condolences <3

“ Jon's passing will leave a large hole in the hearts of anyone who had the good fortune to know him and to call him a friend. Jon had a great enthusiasm for life. He loved his Cowboys and we suspect even more the trash talking of opponent teams. Jon cared deeply for his family and friends, often putting their needs before his own. His spirit was luminous, and you knew that when Jon was present, that life would be anything but boring. Jon often had a twinkle in his eye, often before he would begin verbally messing with someone, but this was always done in a kind and humorous manner.

His passion extended to gardening where he excelled. Many times he would offer suggestions to friends and colleagues about how best to grow specific plants. Our Angel Trumpet plants all came from his cuttings, and we learned so much listening to him discuss the proper care for plants.

During his last years, Jon was so incredibly fortunate to have Brian in his life. Brian took on the extremely difficult task of caring for Jon when his disease began. We know how difficult this was because I lost my younger sister to the same glioblastoma disease. Brian, you will always have our utmost respect. Unless one has cared for a chronically ill person over a long period of time, it likely is not possible to understand the many challenges one faces and how this can affect you on so many levels. To Jon's family, we want you to know that we greatly respected and cherished him not only as a colleague in the Hunter lab, but also as a dear friend.

RIP dear friend,
