“Daddy, my Daddy! I am going to miss you tremendously. I’m going to miss your smile and you speaking when I walk in, “hey, girl”, I’m going to miss calling Charles Doyle (RIH) and letting the both of you catch up on old memories. You were diagnosed with dementia, but the staff at the memory care were amazed by the things you still remembered. You knew your name, birth date, your wife’s name, the school you went to (Washington High) and my kids were also amazed that you could read what was on someone’s shirt. Daddy, I’m blessed and at peace knowing that God is with you. Thank you for being MY Daddy and taking care of me. I made it a priority to come and visit you weekly and to have conversations even when you didn’t feel like talking, I would insist you speak. The employees at Serenity Empire really took great care of you up until the transition. Thank you Ms. Betty, Charlene, Ms Shirley, Ayanna, KiKi, Minnie, Ms. Fran, Blair and your buddy Crystal. Daddy, you’re now at peace and no more illness. You can now be at rest with all of your Fair Street Bottom crew, Uncle Duke, June, your parents, grandmother, Uncle Charles, Uncle Hershel, Uncle Lynn, Uncle Birdcage and Richard Thomas.
