EP

“ When I was 11 years old, I decided to make a cake when mama was at work. The problem was that I didn't really know how to cook anything; especially a cake without a recipe written down. Even so, I still began combining the ingredients that I had believed I needed in order to make that cake. I knew I needed sugar, but I had no idea how much, so I decided to dump the entire 5 lb. bag into the mixture. When I saw that my "cake" was hard as brick and had failed to rise, I was so upset and disappointed because it was supposed to be a surprise for mama.

When Daniel came into the kitchen and saw how upset I was over my cake, he pretended that it wasn't so bad and then convinced me he was taking a piece to barber college for lunch that day. More than 50 years later, it suddenly occurred to me that my beloved nephew/brother had only pretended to take some to school in order to make me feel better! And I loved him even more for caring enough about my feelings to make me believe that. Daniel was special to me for many reasons; but mainly because I felt special to him, as his young aunt/baby sister. My heart is broken for having to accept the loss of this much beloved family member. I will miss him more than I can say and look forward to seeing him again when I join him and other beloved family members in Heaven.
