“ Hey Josh. I learned about crazy shit like computers and jets and rockets and how they work man and that is my new drug as well as exercise. You should have been my electronic weapons officer in an FA-18EF super hornet. I just forgot about my dreams or thought they were impossible or all I could do was music. Now I've turned music as a way of controlling parameters and actuators and thrust vectoring Josh. I can fly in simulation but if I had the funding, I'm not freaking kidding Josh, I could fly around like iron man! I feel like we would have had alot of fun building drones together and making movies again. We'll I love you to Pluto and back man. Let's go there!

“ I love you, Josh. I always wanted to say that to you because I always believed you were special during your short time on planet Earth. You were an angel here, and now you have your wings. We weren't as close as I wished. You were always on the go; but I have a few random memories of us and they remain vivid in my heart and mind. I miss you. I think of you often, keep your picture in front of my window. The morning sun illuminates your face and I feel at peace knowing that you are in Paradise. For now, I can only dream of such glory, but I know that we will meet again. I wrote you something..A Poem For Josh a.j. Beaver;I used to look at you and think, “wow, what a good-looking guy. Bright piercing blue eyes, and a genuine smile.” You were such a kind-hearted soul who traveled for miles. Wise, beyond your years, had your own kind of style. Oh, how I wish you didn't have to leave us so soon; you had a heart of titanium and your guide was the moon. With maps, perhaps, you back-packed your way across the globe, making homes with strangers; loving yourself as well as your neighbor. The last memory I have of you is you and me at a table in the month of June, the morning after a decent party was finally through. You asked me about God, wondered if He loved you, I said, “I think you're his favorite.” You slyly said, “cool.” It's our loss; Heaven's gain; His kingdom come soon; I just know you're in Heaven smiling down, and the idea of you, still turns my frown upside-down. You split your Jimmy John's Beach Club with me, that was the first time I ever felt Easy, Lucky, and Free.Love Always & Forever,Erin Forever Moore

“ I found out today, Jasmin told me. it hurts to hear this news and it saddens me to hear of your passing. I remember the last time we saw each other was at the national gathering this year in trade circle. When I said bye I thought I would see you again at the gathering but I didn't. You helped inspire me to travel and see life from a new more refreshing perspective. I will miss you bro.

“ I found out about your passing a month later. Unfortunately, I was unable to make your funeral and your memorial. I took my one and only shirt off my back and gave it to Mce with a message I wrote for ya. You always liked my H3 shirt. And, now it's yours forever. I miss you buddy. Though our friendship wasn't as long as I would have wished it to be... I'm so glad to have had you in my life. Love you Josh! R.I.P. my friend.-Ash Tray

“ I will never forget meeting Josh.....i met him with Timmy in Chicago. It was a beautiful moment in time. He was such a nice guy. So fragile. So sweet. We sang songs. And drank beers. It was wonderful. I ran into him later in New Orleans and he was happier then i have ever seen him. Tougher. Not so fragile. I really couldn't fully grip my mind around it, it was such a swellagent thing. He most defiantly lived to the fullest. And lived for the rest of us who've forgotten how to live and be free. What a wonderful man he was. Truly was. He always shined. Always will. Love you Josh.....

“ Josh holds a special place in my heart and memories. He was a big part of my childhood and I could not feel more blessed. There are so many memories I would never trade. From sneaking out to our fun talks on bean bag chairs to building forts in your moms basement with a hundred boxes, I mean it just doesnt get any better. My love and support goes out to all of his family and of course friends. He was loved by so many and it doesnt take much seeking to realize why. I am so honored to have know him and his family and my heart aches for all that were around him. There is comfort in knowing that Josh was a kind, sweet and free soul. He lived his life the way we all should. Josh was not only a friend but a personal hero. He will be forever missed and loved. Rest In Paradise Buddy.-Samantha

“ The loss of a love one brings much grief and sadness, but there is so much comfort that can be found in Jehovah God's word the bible. The promise of a resurrection at John 5:28, 29 and Revelation 21:3, 4.

“ To the Beaver family, I am very sorry to hear about Joshua's falling asleep in death. Please accept my condolences. A comforting scripture that comes to mind is found at Isaiah 25:8a which say, He will actually swallow up death forever, and the Sovereign Lord Jehovah will certainly wipe the tears from all faces. There will be a time when God will eliminate death, along with the tears and pain that come from those who have been touched by it. Again, my prayers are with you, and remember there is hope in the promises Jehovah God makes in the Bible. ~John 11:25, John 5:28,29.

“ To the Family: May the God of all comfort continue to strengthen you all now and during the difficult days ahead. God's loving resurrection provision assures us The hour is coming when all those in the memorial tombs will hear Jesus' voice and come out. ~John 5:28,29. Keep in mind... God is faithful and always keeps his promises! (Consider 1 John 4:8,9 and Revelation 21:3-5)

“ To the family of Josh: Josh and I became friends last year. We bonded over our love for dogs and animals. With Josh's help, I we were able to get many dogs vetted and cared for. He called me when there was a dog in need and, we coordinated vet visits for animals on many occasions. We last saw each other in Nashville August of 2012 at a No Kill Animal Shelter Charity concert. I will miss him and his love that he brought to the world. I am deeply sorry for your loss and words will never be able to express my sympathy. Lori Brownstein
