“ Dear While Family: Please accept my sincere condolences for the loss of your loved one. May the love and support of family and friends comfort you greatly during this difficult time. The Bible also gives us comfort and hope to see our loved ones again right here on earth by means of the resurrection. “There will be a resurrection of the righteous and the unrighteous “. May you have peace as you think about this beautiful hope for the future.

“ Kevin was always good people to me and my family since the first day I met him about 16 years ago. He would always have a happy vibe when you were in his presence, goal/ family orientated. He loved his friends and family, worked hard for his family and loved to rep his favorite Cleveland hometown team. There should be more guys like him. I will miss him very very much.

“ I remember my Uncle Kevin as being my Buddy when he was around. There is only a 4 year age difference between me and Kevin so when I ,was little he felt more like a big brother to me than my Uncle and when I was smaller I figured out how I can make him do whatever I wanted! I have found memories of him teaching me and my older sister how to play Marco Polo at my Grandfathers house in Cleveland. Him sitting up with me until I fell asleep when we spent the night over. Even when he moved o Atlanta and stayed with my Mother he would always pick me up from work when I got off late because he said it wasn't safe for me to ride at night alone. I always convinced him to make late night fast food trips with me, and he would tell me I was the only person who could talk him into anything! He was always kind and loving to me and never called me by my first name even when I became an adult with a family of my own, to him I was always "Lo-Lo". I would run into him every now and then and the last time that I saw him he gave me his silly grin and hugged me twice and told me he loved me,then we said our good byes. I will hold onto that memory of him because i will dearly miss running into my Uncle and receiving that hug.

“ 2 and 1/2 years ago I spoke over the phone to a kindhearted, gentle man name Kevin. He had a willingness to help and give me insight on how to take care of an aging parent as a caregiver along with how to apply for services to aide in her care.

Kevin had never met me nor did he know me. He was at work and had a client waiting to see him when I called. He did not rush our conversation, he was very patient and understanding and though I was concern about his client waiting he reassured me that things would be ok as he continued to talk with me.

Fast forward to recently when I met Kevin, though unable to speak what transcended was more powerful than his voice.

I met the spirit of this man in his present body. It represented what he previously spoke. His smile was the kindness that I once heard in his voice. The hugs he gave me was the gentleness of the words he previously spoke.

To his wife, son and family he leaves behind -Kevin is an example of what life is suppose to be about-LOVE. I pray that God give all of you the strength to deal with not having your love one with you physically. Carry him in your heart everyday knowing that he represented God which is Love.

“ Uncle Kevin's Nose: I remember squishing his nose between my fingers and comparing it to mine. I realized that as a kid, I had a soft nose and adults had hard noses that don't squish right lol. I often touch my nose, or squeeze for the consistency, always always always comparing it to what Uncle Kevin's nose felt like, to see if I'm an adult yet lol.

When he moved down to Atlanta and stayed with us for a while, I remember hanging out with him (I don't know where everyone else was, but I don't remember caring when he was around) and walking down the road to Circle K. I remember riding with him in my mom's explorer on a rainy night, to pick her up from work, nothing particular happened, I just remember the moment and feeling happy and safe. I remember sitting on his foot as he tried to walk around the house and I'd start to pull the hair out of his legs lol. He teased me about having a raspy voice as a little girl. I remember wanting to be a physical therapist because he talked about being a massage therapist when I was little; I actually enrolled in college for that at first. I remember his smile, his teeth, how his eyes smiled. I remember Uncle Kevin, and I love him. Aunty Tonya and KJ, I love you both dearly.
