“ To Rod,

Condolences on the lost of your Mom. Praying God strengthen you all during this time of healing. I won't say it gets easier but you have your Dad and sister with each other, the memories will always be present. Kim was a faithful woman of God. She's your Angel and always watching over you all. Her kind spirit will be missed in PB.

“ Mrs Kim. Mrs Kim. Mrs Kim.
I don't know where to start. Simply the Best.
Strong. Loving. A Smile to Light Up the entire 404. Rod and Kia would always talk about you and you lived up to their Legend. I'll never forget how you Treated Me (and ANSIP as a Whole) as a Son and I love you as a Mother. The excitement when you crossed those Sands to AKA and watching your babies walk that UA Graduation Stage. I'm holding on to those memories of you forever. It's hard to write these words, but knowing you are at comfort and peace now lightens that Load. Rest Well Angel. 💜 - Caméon

“ My dear friend Kim (aka Taraji P Henson) as I always called you. I am truly saddened and hurt to know of you being gone. When I met you at THD in 2017 you were truly a blessing to be around and to share our lives. When we would meet in the break room for lunch and talk about antiques and our families it was always refreshing. I will miss our texts and phone calls just to get a laugh. You being an AKA sorority sister to my Mom made it even easier to become close. Words really can not express how hurt and sad I feel. I know that you are at peace and I will continue to be strong for myself and your family. I remember how close you were to Rod and I will keep he and your entire family in prayer and uplifted through this trying time. Only God can keep up strong and with faith I know He will.

I love you.

Your Home Depot Friend, Angela.

“ From teaching one of her children, working together at Greenforest ELC to Ushering together at our church home Rainbow Park, Kim was a beautiful spirit. Her presence and quiet smile brought a light into the room that is irreplaceable. She will be sorely missed. I pray God grant her family peace and take comfort that she will forever remain in their hearts and the hearts of those blessed by her presence.
