“ Hey Auntie ,
First off let me start by saying thank you for being there when I needed you most. You and your children stood by me and yanna when we needed it . I want to apologize because I should've realized then how important it is to value and cherish the people you love the most while you can because today is never promised. Thank you for still loving and caring for me even when I didn't care for myself. Thank you the hugs and laughs, you and your kids know how to be serious and crack a joke at the same time. Thank you showing me how a bond between siblings should and need to be . I cherish the bond you have with all your siblings more I love the one between you and my dad . Each one of your siblings all had a different bond and relationship with you . I love u auntie and know that I will get better at spending time with family. I've been trying to be there for your kids like y'all was for me . Love u

“ To my Beautiful
I wish I would have given you your hugs and thank you’s when you were here. I appreciate and will always cherish the things you did for me and my family. The last minute babysitting that you did for me, the advice, and most of all your forgiveness. I will truly miss you and that special bond that we had. MY BEAUTIFUL AUNTIE, our new angel. You fought a good fight.... Love You
