“ Hey mommy 🙏🥰👑 You're truly missed. I knew mother's day would be hard but you know what I got through it. Today was just more of a celebration of your new life. You're adorned by God and a new creation..it does get hard some times living without you but I focus on positive memories and the goodness of your heart as a mother and grandmother and all of your family that you do loved as well..cant forget about them. We will cherish this day and keep your pics, videos, and whatever you left us that made us realized we still have a piece of you in our hearts. You were the most giving human I knew and most hard working woman I've known. You taught me a lot about being a mother, you guided me, and gave m valuable advice, and I still apply that to my everyday life. One day I pray life takes us all to newer better heights but for now I will continue to be reassured that God is whom I shall trust in .my faith in God 🙏🙏 is stronger and stronger. The word is still in me and it motivates me each day. Well I know you're up there with you other family that we also miss dearly tell them hello. We will meet again. Don't worry I'll figure everything out like I always do. Happy happy happy happy birthday 🎂🎈 queen Margaret aka "Boot". Love you always.

“ *Ms. Woodson was a hard worker.
She treated all of her students like they were her own children.
I will miss seeing her face throughout the hallways.
May God bless the immediate and extended families impacted.
With love,
Riley*
