“ Matthew was one of the first people I met at Grady High. One year older than me, Matty welcomed me and treated me like a brother from day one. We made music together, creating a song called "Ballin' Bigger" back in 1996. It was my first time recording in a studio. Throughout high school, music was always his first love and he kept pursuing his dreams after graduation. I shifted from music as an adult and focused more on journalism, covering the music scene. As a result, we would run into each other at major events in Atlanta and other cities. He would always tell me that I should've continued to rap because of my lyrics and maybe he was right. But he was carrying the dream for both of us and everyone who wanted to do something in their youth, but gave up or shifted their dreams. The last time I saw him was about 2 years ago at SXSW in Austin. Again, he gave me props for past skills as a rapper and congratulated him for continuing to leave his mark in the industry. Matty's legacy will always be alive through the dreams he followed, the art he created, and the people he touched! I'm glad that we were able to connect in this life, and I'm sure everyone who encountered feels the same way.

Sending prayers to the Pearson family!

Much Love Brother!

“ My life will continue to be blessed because of the joy, love and compassion my sweet cousin Matthew gave to me so willingly. I was drawn more than usual to his last Instagram post - feeling inspired by his serving and giving spirit. I know now that God was giving Matt his final, lasting moment for each of us. I love you, Uncle Kent, Aunt Renee, Chris and Tamara. We will get through this.

“ I send my condolences and love to you during this time. Matthew was one of the coolest and most fun people to be around. I remember him playing one of his songs for my kids when we visited you guys in Atlanta and periodically hearing them singing it the whole ride back to Maryland and for days after. I am strengthened with knowledge that he had such a strong family foundation and a beautiful soul that will be warmly welcomed by the family we will all some day be reunited with.

“ If you ever saw the Sun on a rainy day that was Matty P. Pizzle is what I called him and he would yell back Colbert in his jolly, boisterous voice. Followed by an “Oh Boy” I’ve got something to show you. He was always put his folks on to whatever was new, or whatever could help push them forward. Keeping opportunities to himself just was not him. I met Matty in 10th grade thru a large collective of friends in the APS school bubble of Atlanta and we all remained pretty tight to this day. And I attribute a lot of that to Matty P , being the friend that holds everybody together and helps you through the hard times. I know he has probably already linked back up with his Grady High partners Jason and Jamil. I’m glad they got each other again. We gonna miss you Pizzle.

“ want to say to his family and friends that we all know that Matt had a different light, it was bright and full of good energy. So, I know wherever he's at, I would like to imagine he will have safe travels and the vibes around him will be on a positive smooth frequency. We lost him and one of our other dear friends/classmates Jason Myers, not too long ago, who also was Matt's dear friend, so, this is pretty saddening but I know if Matt could communicate with us he wouldn't want us to be saddened. He'd tell us to have fun, live now, and go harder for him. Matt wouldn't say cry me a river. That's not the person I knew, so even though I am saddened I will stay motivated because he was a driven person focused on letting his dreams carry him forward. May the Most High welcome him into his kingdom. Amin!

“ Us in black were the last videos I captured of him before we woke up early to what later led his body to ascend.. He was loved & comforted all the way until he walked into the hospital, know that. This renaissance, historical, phenomenal, humanitarian, warrior, king of a man led pools of people through life through love, laughter, & wisdom.

He was my first real boyfriend, life partner.. The love he shares is one of a lifetime. I was not the woman I was before I met him... his molding is serious & threaded with pure love & growth intention.

We lost a legend but we gained a POWERFUL spirit in the highest realm for protection and love ❤️
