“ I wish all of his family the best and am so sorry for your loss. I knew Melvin long ago when we were neighbors in the small community outside of Birmingham variously called West Ensley or Oak Ridge. As a young boy, Melvin walked along those roads, not as a pedestrian... but as a driver, making the sound of engines, swirling his arms to maintain control of an imaginary big rig or car. Years later I heard that he had a job as a bus driver in Atlanta; so good to hear that Melvin got his dream job.
