“ I will always remember Mildred. She was a good friend and always had a smile. She was a person you could count on whether it was playing the piano or singing at any event you were planning. She was so good and came through when we had my mother's funeral (Louise Smith). When God calls our loved ones home, he leaves a gift of memories instead. Hold on to those memories and let them guide you in a time like this. Just take pride in knowing you were part of a well lived life. May Angels walk with you today and always. Mildred is now singing in God's heavenly choir.
