*Dear Lord, we lift to you the parent, siblings and the rest of the families and friends of Tamba Nfali Moadeh Kamanda. Cover them with your comfort and give them strength and courage to accept their loss. Remind them that you have a purpose for their grief and that you will help them heal in your mighty name. May you continue to help this families rise above their sorrow, imbue their spirit with your loving kindness and comfort. Send your angels to lift them up, dear father, so they can reveal your glory one more
REST ON N,FALI

“ My heartfelt condolences go out to the entire Kamanda families at home and abroad. Uncle Jon , aunty Mabel, Sia and Mimi, while we are saddened to hear about N’fali’s sudden death, we take consolation in the knowledge that God is a good God, He knows best and His ways are past finding. I pray that you all will be comforted with the same comfort we were once comforted in our grief and loss. May his gentle soul RIPP.

Shalom,

“ It felt like a bad dream but then the almighty God knows best . Gone too soon N’fali; we will meet again but not yet. I vividly remember your energy and positivity driving me around your city as we rally through the night; your surprises for me .. ah me man nor worry!! 🌀 I have screamed in my quiet moments without answers even with the acceptance that you are now with our good Lord. Rest well big man

My hopes of building upon those of your hilarious childhood memories were dashed upon the news of your passing. We are left with just sadness sadness. Only comforted by your unforgettable profound statements like "Bobby is my friend but Curtis is my Paddi" This changes the tears in my eyes to sweet memories. The candour of your statements are just as enduring as their originality. May God comfort your parents, your sibblings and the rest of the family and friends. Sleep on Beloved M'falie. Sleep and take ur rest . May your gentle soul RIPP. Auntu Nyawo.

“ We always say the good die young, and I've known this for a while, but you've solidified my belief. I can't for the life of me remember how and where we decided we would become friends, all I know is you came into my life and it's as though I'd known you forever. I'll miss your smile, I'll miss your optimism and your charm. Most of all I'll miss knowing a man who I felt most comfortable around, knowing that when I was around you I could be myself and I was safe. Rest well friend, I know you'll charm the mess out of Jesus and all the people in heaven. No matter your flaws and imperfections your heart was so kind and pure I know God let you slide up there. Love you always me padi/brother ❤️

“ I was shocked and saddened to learn of N'fali's sudden passing at such a young age and my heart goes out to the family. I began working with N'fali about 10 years ago during my tenure at www.raise.com and we quickly bonded over our shared passion for the NBA. N'fali was a sharp professional and a pleasure to do business with. While we drifted apart during Covid, N'fali reached out to me the weekend before his death to discuss ways to expand his business and I was looking forward to working with him again. Once again, my heart goes out to the family for losing a promising loved one at such a young age.
