

Nicholas Coby Dilisio

July 8, 1961 - February 19, 2026

Nicholas Coby Dilisio, lovingly known as Nick, was born on July 8, 1961, in Madison, Ohio.

A graduate of West Tech High School, Class of 1979, he continued his education at Cleveland State University and DeKalb Community College after moving to Georgia.

Nick devoted 30 years of his career to Certified Logistics, where he was known for his dedication and steady presence.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Vivian Walters Dilisio and Joseph Dilisio; his brother, Denis Merrill; and his sister, Sue Curlee.

He is survived by his wife, Paula Harrold Dilisio, his daughters, Marissa Dilisio (Cooper Mannon) and Samantha Dilisio; and his sister, Anastacia Dilisio.

Nick was a gifted guitarist and songwriter who found joy in music. He especially loved The Beatles and could name nearly any song from the 1970s within the first three notes. He had an incredible memory for actors—young or old—and a deep love for movies.

His family was his pride and joy including his cat Ozzy, and he even found a little happiness in every Amazon delivery at the door.

For seven years, Nick faced prostate cancer with courage and determination.

His motto throughout his cancer journey was, “Ride it until the wheels fall off.”

And he did—bravely, fully, and on his own terms.

A private Celebration of Life will be held in Ohio at a later date with family and friends.
