

Olanrewaju Adedayo Olufemi

August 15, 1962 - September 9, 2020

Lanre was born on August 15, 1962 in Lagos, Nigeria to Tijani Olufemi and Maria Ibilola and he was the first child of his father. He came to the US in 1987 where he went to Mercy College and later on got his Master's at York College. An avid soccer fan, he played a ton when he was younger, and when he wasn't on the field playing or coaching, he'd be at home watching.

Before moving to the US, Lanre met Abiola and it was love at first sight. They moved to the US where they had 2 beautiful kids. Lanre became a high school teacher, where he taught Business Law at August Martin in Queens, NY educating and empowering a younger generation.

Lanre was a loving and devoted father, husband and brother. He always went extra and beyond to make sure those in his life were taken care of. He refused to let any obstacle get in his way and always worked hard to achieve his goals. Because of this, when he moved his family to Atlanta, all his friends from NY followed as well.

Lanre was a beautiful soul that touched so many other lives. Whether it was his family, friends, business partners or students, you left the interaction feeling you gained something special. He never had to tell you that you were loved, it was just something you felt and saw through his actions. He will truly be missed.

Lanre is survived by his wife, children, brothers and sisters, and a host of loving family and friends.
