“Paige, we are going to miss u. I love you cousin! I just wish I could see and talk to u. This really hit hard, because we all grew up together. We all went our separate ways, and lost touch, but the love never left. Rest up baby girl, until we meet again!

“ Pure magic Paige. The biggest heart, the most creative spirit. I'll miss your smile and infectious laugh, the way you made me feel so loved and seen for all the things I doubted in myself. You appreciated every detail. An artist's eye, which you shared with the world. So many memories dancing and twirling on dance floors with you. The most fun person to get dressed with for a night out. No one will ever rock a hot pink tutu like you. We should just go ahead and retire the garment. I loved full body laughing with you. I'll miss you forever. Sending so much love to your family from LA <3

“ Paige ❤️ I’ll never forget moving to your neighborhood in PA. I didn’t really have any friends and my mom kept insisting I become friends with you since she loved your parents so much but I was shy and intimidated by how cool you were. One Friday she invited your family over for dinner and didn’t tell me until 5 minutes before you arrived and I was horrified! But as soon as we started hanging out we instantly clicked so well that by the end of the evening we were begging our moms to let us have a sleepover 😂 they said no but first thing the next morning you were ringing my doorbell to hangout and the rest was history! We were inseparable that summer. I never felt more cool than when I was with you! You made living in Philly one of my happiest memories! I called your house phone so much I can still hear your Dads voice over the answering machine. I remember you thought my belly laugh was hilarious so you would force yourself on me and tickle me saying “sorry I just love your laugh!” Our obsession with Usher, you would immediately call me any time he was on TV. When we would rollerblade while holding hands going full speed down steep hills that we would have to face plant into the grass on the side of the road because it was the only way to stop us 😂 when we used to go visit that old man named Babe who had like 25 kittens in his backyard. I would go to all of your basketball games! Mostly because I was in love with one of your teammates little brothers 😂 and of course I’ll never forget our KFK radio station we spent hours creating, I wish I could find those audio tapes! I remember you walking me home on my last day in PA and we were reminiscing and crying to each other about how we would never find another friendship like this one 🥺 You came to visit me in NC and we went to basketball camp for a week and everyone was obsessed with you because you were so charismatic and talented! You got so annoyed with me that week because I kept sleeping sideways and talking in my sleep and waking you up 😂 Mostly I just remember how much we laughed together. Your big beautiful smile and infectious laugh will always be imprinted in my memory. We kept in touch over the years and I always hoped we would get to see each other eventually. I really wish I made that last minute trip a few years ago to visit you in Atlanta. I’m heartbroken that you are gone. I have missed you so much over the years and will continue missing you until I see you again one day on the other side. I love you, Paige! Rest in peace angel.

Love, Tracey
