“ I'm so heartbroken 💔😞 I've been searching for Danielle for 3 years. Trying to get in contact with her, all for me to find out she's resting peacefully. We were kids when we met, but out of my 23 years of living, you were my only GENUINE friend. I miss you & I will NEVER forget you. ❤️❤️ Such a beautiful spirit.

“ I just found out my sister passed away after no responses since September 2022, So I thought to look her up after our Mom ask how she was doing today(8/2/24). Every time I thought of her i told myself hopefully she’s ok and today in response to our mom I responded hopefully she didn’t pass just to look up that she did. Me and my sister had hot splitting up when she was 1. I’m 6 years older than her. So throughout my life since 6 I never forgotten my sister or her birthday and I knew one day I would find her. Throughout my teenage life I searched her name on social media when I knew hoping that would pop up I even messaged people asking their birthday to see if it was her. In 2020 I was on a spiritual journey just being connected with myself and God more than I ever have in life. I remember searching her name and a week later my Aunt called me and told me Danielle had found her birth certificate and found her through a people’s search when searching out Moms name. Than was so ironic the fact that I had thought about her a week before. We spoke and I immediately wanted to visit her. She was a minor at the time so I ask the person that she know as her mom if it would be ok and she was acted so weird towards me as if I wanted to take her from her. Which wasn’t the case I was 23 I just wanted to see my sister. So Me and Ayonea caught up on a bunch of stories and I realized that I understood her though blood bc I experienced similar behaviors and emotions as she did. We did get to meet we went to the park and shopping and stopped other few places. I forgot to add the first photo I saw of her I knew she was my sister she has the same exact face as my mom lol. I’m the oldest girl my mom has Breyonea, Our mom middle child Dayonea, and Ayonea was the last. Well the last that i know of and count. I love my sisters so much and even with the little time and convos and hope of teachings and memories I had planned for us, I will cherish those forever. Thank you sister being so strong and so patient and making 2020 the best year of my life without you reuniting with the family would have never been complete.

“ Danielle, you came to my school (The GLOBE Academy) and was a force to be reckoned with from day one. You could be a challenge, but we ALL loved you to pieces and were so sad when you left and we couldn't say goodbye. You are one of the most memorable and down to earth students I have ever taught! And one of my favs....after 21 years, that says a lot. I don't know if you kept playing, but you were quickly becoming quite the viola player! I'm sorry we couldn't keep in touch, but you have been in my thoughts all these years. I was heartbroken to hear you had moved on from this world, but we would never have been the same without your light! I am so proud you became a soldier. My condolences to the family and close friends of Danielle. I know you must all feel somewhat empty without her huge presence. She was an amazing young woman and we were all very lucky to have crossed her path.

“ We miss you Ayanna, so affectionately called by our family. I cherish the moments we shared as I chauffeured you and DeAnna home from school. I cherish the small talks we shared. I cherish the fact that you knew that I was here for you. I pray that all of those you thoughtfully touched, find peace and comfort in the moments you shared together. Though your time here on earth was short, God said that you've completed your assignment. Thank you for your service to our country, your peers, family and friends.

“ Danielle and I bonded because during acclimation phase at YCA, she was the only cadet in her platoon that continuously walked off. She would see me walking toward her and yell, "Oh my God, how do you keep finding me?" After the second week she saw me walking towards her and yelled, "mama, I'm right here." We both laughed; I was getting on her nerves. Although I corrected her every time she said it, she totally ignored me and called me mama until the day she graduated. Shields was my most improved Cadet; she was so determined to be a better version of herself, she worked so hard. I was really looking forward to being in attendance when she graduated from basic training, I couldn't wait to let my battle buddy know how proud I was of her.

To the Shields family, I pray that you find comfort in knowing that to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord. You all are in my thoughts and prayers.
