“ Quinton V. Browning, Q is what I always called him, just shy of GQ because of his classy unique style, he was so adorable and kind, and that smile of his always generated one in return. God thank you for allowing me to know one of your angels personally. ”

“ Quinton was my old neighbor from Spanish Trace, classmate, and a friend. I remember going to Atherton Elementary school with him, being in the same classes together. So, Quinton and I knew each other for a long time. He had such a good heart and spirit. I remember Quinton walking me to the bus stops in the morning and after school we would talk about what we wanted to be when we grew up. He told me he wanted to work in the Medical field. I told him that he should most definitely go for it. He knew I was messing up in high school at one point and he came to me and told me I was messing up. That's a REAL friend! He always had a great approach, vibe, and attitude. There isn't anything but good things to say about this exquisite and remarkable man. When I last saw him in Roswell, he was trying to help me with directions. I never knew that would be my last time running into him. He was excited to see me and so was I. I will miss your smile. I will miss our talks when we were in high school. I will miss everything about you. I will miss you my friend. Rest well sweetheart. We will meet again.

“ Quinton was a sweetheart. He was a very genuine and humorous person. I remember the last time I saw him was right before we all went off to college we took a picture in front his mom's house in Spanish Trace. I remember his big smile and laugh. When we were in high school we use to imitate Brian McKnight's song One Last Cry. I have searched and searched for the picture we took that day and cannot find it so I will forever hold on his smile and all the memories we shared throughout our adolescent years.

God bless and may God send His angels to give you comfort.

Love you all. Memories of Quinton V Browning Jr, Vernard as I've always know him. I remember him last from his beautiful smile that he gave to me before he left us, by coming by my job to say his last hello to Auntie Sheila and me not knowing that would be my last time to see him. Vernard, I will miss you and your beautiful smile and your beautiful, friendly spirit you always have when you were in my presence. I love you and will miss you.*
