“ One of my favorite memories of Dick was of him running the Free Press Marathon. We had arranged to meet at the 21 mile mark and I would join the race and run with him the last 5 miles until we got near the finish line. As we ran side by side I noticed that he had this look of absolute determination on his face. He glanced over at me and said hi and continued on. At the finish, I ran around and met him at the end of the chute after he had finished and had some water. He looked at me and said (somewhat angered) Herbie, why didn't you meet me at the spot we had arranged? I asked him who did he think he had been talking to those last five miles. He laughed and gave me a hug. He was so far in "the zone" that he had no recollection of me being there. I remember thinking at the time, "Man, this guy is one tough old bird". And he was. RIP Sgt. West. - Herb Hummer

“ I met many Dick years ago while working with the Michigan Department of Corrections in Detroit. Always friendly and professional with a contagious smile and upbeat manner, he could be counted on to handle even the most difficult situations. After we both retired, Dick continued to remain in contact with many former Corrections co-workers in a group we called “The Big Orange”, meeting monthly, reminiscing about old times, and maintaining lasting friendships. Dick was a great man, with a kind heart who lived a full life, and will be sadly missed by me and his many friends. May he now rest in peace.

“ I first met Dick while conducting a search for contraband at a large downtown Detroit Correction Center. He was conscientious and thorough, and expressed his interest to transfer to the Absconder Recovery Unit. He was experienced in life, showed good intelligence, and willingness to try new experiences. Years later, after his promotion to Sergeant, he fulfilled all expectations. He became the "go to guy" who could be entrusted to do all the responsibilities for the Department in the Regional Transportation Unit, be the "point man" dealing with other agencies, and reliably accomplishing all his work requirements on a very high level. He never once showed reluctance to something unfamiliar. Our office spaces were next to one another, and I enjoyed working with him until my retirement. I know others did as well. He led by doing and was a great example to others. Be at peace in Heaven, Dick. "36 Chevy" OUT.

"Dick. and I worked together for many enjoyable years with the Mich. Dept.of Corrections. For many of those years, as Dick was in charge of transportation, we would meet every morning to identify the location of all parolees in custody, to determine which would be moved, and to where. This was most often an exercise in crisis management, finding beds for violators, when the jails were all full. But Dick never complained, rather faced every day with a smile on his face and a most positive attitude.

Dick was "old school". He was truly a caring man, possessing a tremendous work ethic, a man of faith, and sincere devotion. He was dedicated to caring for his aging mother, was inseparable from his loving wife Pat, and had a most loving bond with his daughter Crystal.

Most importantly Dick was a friend to all and was loved by everyone. His smiling face and uplifting attitude will be sorely missed, but he leaves everyone he touched with wonderful memories, never to be forgotten.
