“ The last time we spoke you said to me "I told Satan to get thee behind me because Victory is mind" Yes cuz, Victory is yours! To be absent from the body is to be presence with the Lord! You are in His presence. I will miss talking to you but you will forever be in my heart. Love you!

“ Rod Reese,

As I reflect on my conversation from two months ago when you were in the hospital and you said “How did you know I was in the hospital, and I said, I was just checking on you”. Then a week later you said you wanted to go home. I said to you “Just stay here, you are in good hands. Sadly I never knew that was the last conversation we would have. I am at a loss of words how much I will miss him, my heart is heavy.

Rod and his parents taught me a lot. Many years ago, he instilled in me the singing and leadership I practice today. More than I could ever have imagined the strength of how his teachings impacted me. I wish he was still here to guide me today to teach me how to hit a new note or to further show me the strength of being patient. Rod, was totally amazing person to me. And I was guided by God when I blurted out to him...“I love you” during the last time I talked to him. God lead me to say these words because I normally would not have said them.

I did come to Atlanta a few years ago to visit the family and see a football game but Alabama and Auburn were not playing in Atlanta. Rather it was a roll-tide in Rods house and we ended up going to the Falcon and Vikings game. It was a great time and a great Thanksgiving weekend. What can I say? Just a totally beautiful time being with Trunetta, Trina, Chris, Page, Mr. Watts, Mrs. Jackie and family; I will never forget it.

I send all of you my love as you go through this trying time.

Rest in heaven my brother.
