“ Mr.Rob ... where do i even start? when i first started your class my 9th grade year i was like “ i don't wanna work on cars , i'm a girl “ but as i continue to get to know you and have the conversations we had, the years go by i'm glad i didn't switch my pathway class. you were nothing but a good soul to any and everybody, you gave everybody an opportunity, if they didn't take it that's on them because you actually cared about us. i appreciate everything you taught me, even the days where i was sad you knew something was wrong you let me have my day, the next day you checked up on me making sure everything was okay. we had several talks about you and your wife, you loved her so dearly... you even had me make a valentines gift for her and i was honored to. Mr.Rob reminded me so much of my grandfather that i lost years ago and as i've gotten closer with him & we had the talks we had i wasn't ready for this type of news. once i found out my whole entire mods changed that day, it ate me alive the day i found out i couldn't do anything but cry and relive all the memories i have made in that class. i remember it was times i was thirsty and i knew you had water bottles here you go “ that will be a $1” lol things like that , all you love to do is joke around like the time i asked to use your microwave you told me i couldn't use it anymore after that because you don't want it to get dirty and you had it since you been there... i com back months later asking to use it and the good heart that you have let me use it again even after you told me the first time was my last time. Mr.Rob i'm going to miss hearing your loud voice, i'm going to miss all the check ups, conversations etc. i appreciate everything you've done for me and all the opportunities that you gave us, i have nothing but love you and i want you to watch over me and your family members, we may have our days where we just start thinking deeply about you but i promise imma keep going , your finally at peace now no more bad days, no more doctor visits, no salad bowls lol, your okay now and i respect that . rest in peace Mr.Rob you will definitely be missed ☐❤-cynigh heath
