“ To my childhood best friend, I don't understand why you did it and I can't stop feeling guilty. I wish I would've reached out, I wish I could've made you stay a little bit longer. It hurts me every day to know that when I wake up it's another day without you, another day you should've been here. I feel guilty for living while you've passed on to the next world. I hope that while you are on your journey to heaven, I hope that you'll remember how much we all dearly loved you and know that we will all miss you everyday. I will forever remember October 17, 2025. In honor of you when I turn 18 I am going to get your initials and the day you were born as well as the day you passed tattooed on me behind my ear on my right side. I miss you so much and I wish I could've helped you overcome your mental health struggles. We all love and miss you so much down here.

To Ms. Stephanie, you have lost angle and I am so dearly sorry. I miss you and Saniyah everyday. I wish I could've stayed longer in Georgia just to enjoy y'all's company. now with everyday I feel grief. I hope that you learned to live with it, and find your reason to smile again.

“ ❤️ In Loving Memory of Saniyah

I met Stephanie and her beautiful daughter, Saniyah, just a couple of months ago on a cruise, and from the very start, Saniyah's kindness, light, and sweetness left such a warm impression on my heart.

*My heart is absolutely broken for Stephanie and her precious girl.
There are no words that can truly ease this kind of pain, but I pray that God wraps Stephanie in His deepest comfort and peace, the kind that goes beyond understanding. May He hold her close through every wave of grief, and may Saniyah's beautiful spirit continue to shine in the hearts of everyone who loved her.*

Rest in heaven, sweet Saniyah. You will never be forgotten. 🕊️💜

“ Stephanie and Mama, my heart aches for you. I am at a total loss for words in the passing of her beautiful young life. I miss Saniya and if I had a wish I would wish for her to come back, her happiness and to allow her to live a great life, become an Actress and enjoy the fruits of labor she desired to see come true. I am so sorry. I will forever be here for you and will keep the fondest of thoughts and smiles from Saniya. Keeping you lifted in daily prayer. All my love forever. RhondaK
