“ Sylvia, My beautiful sister who allowed her light to shine wherever she was. She loved the Lord and her family. I loved my sister and now I really know how much everyone else loved her. My sister was smart, thoughtful, entertaining, stylish, loved to dress and get her hair done, caring, loving, patient, and just simply amazing. We loved to listen to old music together and challenge each other on the name of the song and artist. When we played cards together, she was always my partner and we would win against our two other sisters. She was a delight to be around and we had fun even as we grew older. She never stopped calling me “baby sister “. My sister will forever be in my heart. I love you Sylvia and I will miss you my friend.

My Auntie was an phenomenon woman as Maya Angelou described in her poem, "Phenomenal Woman." When she entered a room with her classy hairdo and eloquent style of dressing every head would turn. She had a glow about her and a smile that would light up the world. I was her niesty pooh and we could talk about the goodness of all the time. She loved all her nieces and nephews. My mom her, " Big Sis," was a strong reminder of Grandma and she'd often tell that she was her second mom. Mama will always remember the time she spent the night with you. She loved you so much and enjoyed the time she had with all her siblings that weekend. Your sweet sweet spirit will be missed here on earth..Take your rest until we meet again. Your niece Juanita and oldest sister Virginia.

To the Hardaway Family, I send my prayers and sympathy. Sylvia was a very sweet and funny person. She and I spent many days together when she babysat for her sister and I babysat for my sister when we were teenagers. I will cherish those memories of her and the memories from when I first met her in the third grade. Heaven has gained an angel. Rest my friend, you fought a good fight! Love you
