“ Vanessa was an inspiration to all that knew her through her doll blog and You Tube videos. She encouraged me to start playing with my dolls and to start my own doll blog. I admired her creativity, her talent and her zest to live life to its fullest no matter the obstacles. I cherish the doll sofa she made for me as well as the many doll clothes I have that she made. I admired her positivity through all that she faced. My heart goes out to her family. God bless you all.

“ Vanessa and I met in Rochester, NY working at Eastman Kodak, we quickly became friends and realized we lived very close to each other, we went to the gym together, we love jewelry and would call each other when we saw something we both liked. after Vanessa moved to Georgia we called each other regularly to chat.

When I moved to Charlotte we kept talking about meeting halfway for lunch but we never got to do it. I will miss our long conversations about our favorite TV shows and line dancing. Rest in Heaven Girlfriend.

“ As fellow doll enthusiast, my heart sank when I heard the news that this doll extraordinaire, beautiful woman would no longer be on this earth with us. Her light shined bright in her interactions with others in person and over the web to people all over he world. She will truly be missed. I find peace in knowing that she's in a better place and the pain is now over. God Bless and my condolences to her friends and family.

“ Vanessa my dearest cousin, you are gone but will never be forgotten. We will truly miss you at our cousins reunions but you will be with us in spirit. I am so happy we got a chance to bond and get to know you and you got to know all of us as well. I am finding comfort in knowing I got the opportunity to talk to you just recently and hear your voice and to know the last thng I said to you was, I loved you, one last time. Our time was short but your memory will remain in my heart a lifetime. I will always think of your BIG smile and laughter, Rest in Peace beautiful.

“ Please accept my condolences.

I never met Vanessa in person, but she inspired me as a fellow doll collector and doll blogger. She was kind and set a positive example for living with cancer. She had a deft hand with people and animals. She graced our lives with her wit and humor. I will miss her online presence. And I thank you for loving her and contributing to her life. God bless you all.

“ Vanessa was a lovely lady - creative and talented, and had so much love in her heart. I'm glad to have been able to share a creative hobby with her - we were brought together by a shared love of dolls, stories and crafting. I love the little couch she made for me, soon after my father passed, and she knew it was a special gift connected with him. She made it especially lovely and we shared some nice moments as she created it. I think of her every time I look at it. She was unique and rich with creative gifts. Farewell, friend.

“ I live in North East England, far from Vanessa’s family but her creativity was an inspiration to me. After I retired, I found myself collecting dolls and making up stories about them in my head. I came across Vanessa’s blog and her Etsy shop and I was thrilled. I read her photo stories, admired her skilled craftsmanship and imagination and felt like I wasn’t so strange! A kindred spirit! She inspired me to go beyond the narrowly defined ideas of beauty and use dolls to celebrate human diversity in all its forms. She was an inspiration to a worldwide community and we will miss her.
