“ Well my friend, it is time to say farewell. We will miss you daily because we communicated with one another on an almost daily basis. If you weren't sending me spiritual gifs of encouragement and prayer, we were talking on the telephone about any and everything. We shared funny memories of our earlier days and some more serious things that was occurring in our lives. You were my best friend and confidant. . I love you and your wife. Know that we remain brothers for life.

“ I have struggled with what to say. I miss our daily texts and the kindness Poppa Harris has shown me since Dante' passed away. I remember getting upset with him and texting him had gone past the 3-day rule Dante and I had set as friends long ago for no contact. Poppa Harris took in stride and told me he had been under the weather. His kindness and daily text messages have helped me thru some dark moments over the past few years. Moments I would have confided in Dante with. His love and care shown for me after Dante' passed away somehow made the pain a little bit bearable. Rest in peace Poppa you fought a good fight.
